HALEY BECKER

ACCOUNTANT

SHORT BIO:

Haley has loved all things finance since she dressed up as a princess with a cash register for career day in kindergarten. She earned a bachelor's in business administration and a master's in professional accountancy from Stephen F. Austin University and is currently studying to become a CPA. She has worked as a public accountant as well as in the private sector, giving her an intricate understanding of how money works in different settings. When she's not crunching numbers at Kovar Wealth, Haley can be found on the golf course, at the lake, or snuggled up with her Goldendoodle.

LONG BIO:

For career day in kindergarten, Haley wore a princess dress and carried around a plastic cash register because, in her five-year-old words, she was going to “play with money all day long” when she grew up. There was never any doubt she’d work in finance, the only question was where she’d land.

Haley found her love for accounting while taking accounting classes in high school then moved on to a bachelor’s degree in business administration and then a master’s of professional accountancy from Stephen F. Austin State University. Her achievements have come in rapid succession, and this schooling and experience make her an invaluable asset to clients she serves.

After working in public accounting for two years, Haley switched to private industry. Navigating that shift gave her a broader understanding of finance and how different investors and businesses put money to work. While handling the books for Kovar Wealth Management, she’s also in the process of studying to become a CPA.

On the weekends, Haley heads off for family trips to the lake or a round of golf. She’s the proud parent of a beautiful Goldendoodle named Annie Jo.
